Report on

Guest Lecture on Building a Career in Embedded Systems Domain

Organized by Dept. of ECE - MITS

Under TEQIP II 28 March 2017

Report Submitted by: Mr J T Pramod, Asst Professor, Dept of Electronics & Communication Engineering, MITS

No. of Students participated-122

Resource Person: Mr Chetan R P, Director-ERT Tech. Services, Bangalore.

The session started at 10:20AM.

The guest lecture by the resource person was about the importance of embedded systems in the present-day world and the job opportunities for the people who have skill in embedded systems. The discussion started with introduction to embedded systems and the applications of embedded systems in the present scenario like in laptops, mobile phones, projectors etc. He also explained the importance of microcontrollers in embedded systems and the advantage of using microcontrollers in embedded systems. He also gave details about the problems faced while using the different sensors in the embedded systems. For example, the environmental changes (lightning, radiations, etc.) may affect the functioning of the sensors and they may not work properly which spoils the entire usage of the device.

Brief information on 8051, PIC, ARM7 and Cortex-M microcontrollers was given. The importance of 8051 microcontrollers and its wide usage in many industrial applications because of its simple architecture and ease of operation was discussed. The other powerful microcontrollers like PIC, ARM 7(32-bit), Cortex-m and how they are currently replacing the 8051 microcontrollers was explained. The kind of projects which can be done using these microcontrollers like digital clock, IC tester was explained. There was a brief talk on the software like EAGLE, AUTODESK, KEIL, etc. There was a brief discussion about the protocols used by different companies like protocol used by Philips in TVs etc., and CAN protocol used by BOSCH.

He concluded the lecture at 11:30 AM by giving a key note on the type of job opportunities for the people with skills in microcontroller design and firmware programmers in the present-day world and the kind of projects to choose to get a job opportunity in the core companies.
